

COVID-19 Initial Reporting Procedures for Collin College Students

An inherent risk of exposure to COVID-19 exists in any public place where people are present. To mitigate this risk, Collin College encourages the use of masks, handwashing, maintaining an appropriate distance where possible, receiving a COVID-19 vaccination, and self-reporting as your situation changes.

The following guidelines will assist you through the mitigation process.

Step 1. Self-Monitor. Continue to self-monitor at all times, especially after a potential exposure for any illness or a COVID-19 positive individual.

Step 2. Testing. Get tested for COVID-19 or contact your primary care provider. Click HERE to find a testing site.

Step 3. Self-Report. Submit a COVID Self-Report in CougarWeb to receive additional instructions specific to your situation. Please review dates when entering your information via the self-reporting tool.

The following information will be required when you submit a self-report.

Contact information	Name, CWID number, phone number, and email

If received, what are the results of your COVID test or diagnosis?	Positive, negative, awaiting results, or another medical diagnosis (strep throat)
When were you tested?	This is the actual date the test was administered and not the date the results were received.

- Avoid campus until you are fever free for 24-hours without taking fever-reducing medications, and
- Five (5) days have passed since the beginning of your symptoms or test date/medical diagnosis (whichever is first). Work with the faculty to arrange for instructional continuity and related matters.
- Return to campus as long as you are not currently experiencing any COVID-19 symptoms or illness. It is highly recommended that you wear a mask and follow the mitigation suggestions listed above.

Step 5. Feedback. If required, the Dean of Students Office will contact you via email to provide additional information based on your situation.

Step 6. Update. Resubmit a new Self-Report if your circumstances change or if you test positive again.
