LEARNING COMMUNITIES – A NATIONAL AWARD-WINNING PROGRAM

Become a member of a learning community by enrolling concurrently in a cluster of courses. In learning communities courses, at least two classes from different disciplines are combined around a common theme or central question. Professors from each discipline teach the course together, and students and professors form a community of learners. When you register for learning communities, you experience a collaborative learning environment and develop an understanding of the interrelationships of topics and disciplines.

Courses are transferable and can satisfy core or major requirements. You can search for learning communities in the e schedule by searching for “Learning Communities” under Attribute Type. For more information on learning communities: call 972.377.1662 or visit www.collin.edu/learningcomm
