American Sign Language

The Associate of Arts degree with coursework in American Sign Language provides general academic courses and electives that enable students who intend to major in Deaf Education or Deaf Studies to transfer to a college or university.

American Sign Language coursework is designed to provide students with essential, foundational ASL skills, familiarity with deaf culture and an introduction to the discipline of education.

To earn an associate degree, complete the 42 credit hour General Education Core, and 18 credit hours of general studies electives and the Associate of Arts (AA) or Associate of Science (AS) degree requirements.
