

Web Development

Learn to Code

Programmers who are skilled in creating software applications and web technologies are always in high demand. Web developers have the skills needed to create interactive and intuitive websites that adapt to mobile and desktop browsers. Web Developers are also needed to create the server-side code that connects applications to data and user accounts on the back-end.

Careers in Web Development

Web Developer
Average salary: $77,200
Job Growth: 24%

Other careers include software developer, computer programmer, front-end developer, and back-end developer.

Data for Collin County obtained from JobsEQ and O*Net Note: Average salary for occupation as of 2018 and job growth projected from 2019-2026

Choose Your Education

Associate of Applied Science degree (60 credit hours)

Certificate Level 2 – Full-stack Web Developer (32 credit hours)

Certificate Level 1 – Front-end Web Developer (18 credit hours)

Learn more at www.collin.edu/department/webandmobileapp/

Collin College is an equal opportunity institution and provides educational and employment opportunities without discrimination on any basis protected by applicable law.

Published 4/4/2022. Information is subject to change. For the latest version, visit www.collin.edu/academics/info/.

15137-22PB

About Collin College's Program

The Web Development program prepares students for a high-demand career in software development.

Students learn the foundational skillsets needed to thrive in this ever-changing technology field, including computer science, programming fundamentals, web technologies and tools, and database programming. Graduates create full-stack web apps for all screen sizes, including mobile.

Program Features

Learn Full-Stack programming, including:

- Responsive front-end development using HTML, CSS, JavaScript, jQuery, and React
- Back-end programming using Node.js, Java, and SQL Databases

